

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Eyeglass frames for mounting magnifying lenses according to the present invention comprise support units each having an engagement space, and each being positioned on inner sides of each lens frame to match each eye of a wearer. A magnifying lens system is incorporated in the engagement space, and a pair of magnifying main units having an ocular tube is engaged in the ocular tube and is removably mounted on a support unit, which is engaged at the ocular tube and engaged by a fixing mechanism.